

Hockey has its thrills, tobogganing is great sport and ski-jumping is sensational in the extreme, but mountain climbing in the treacherous snows of the Swiss Alps is in a class by itself for real honest-to-goodness excitement. As the insurance men say, "It's a poor risk." Here are a trio of Alpiners spanning a deep crevasse on a perilous climbing expedition.

Press Illustration

Left—Latest picture of General Tasker H. Bliss, who was the military member of the American mission to the peace conference. General Bliss returned from France the other day on the transport America, and a photographer secured this good likeness in his room at the Hotel Astor.

International

Left—Who says 13 is unlucky? These thirteen rubber-shoed, bright-eyed Washington lads who have gathered about the Vice-President just outside the Capitol are Senate pages who were the guests of Mr. Marshall at a regular old-fashioned Christmas party last week.

Press Illustration

Talk about seeing stars! It takes the Milky Way and the mountains of Peru to catch 400,000 on one negative, which shows the great nebula of the Milky Way and...

A quartet of junior Pacific Coast swimming marvels being taught the art of proper breathing during the crawl stroke by Vance Veith, swimming coach of the Los Angeles Athletic Club. One of these lads is a middle distance star, another sprint champion, the third a diving sensation and the fourth a back-stroke expert.

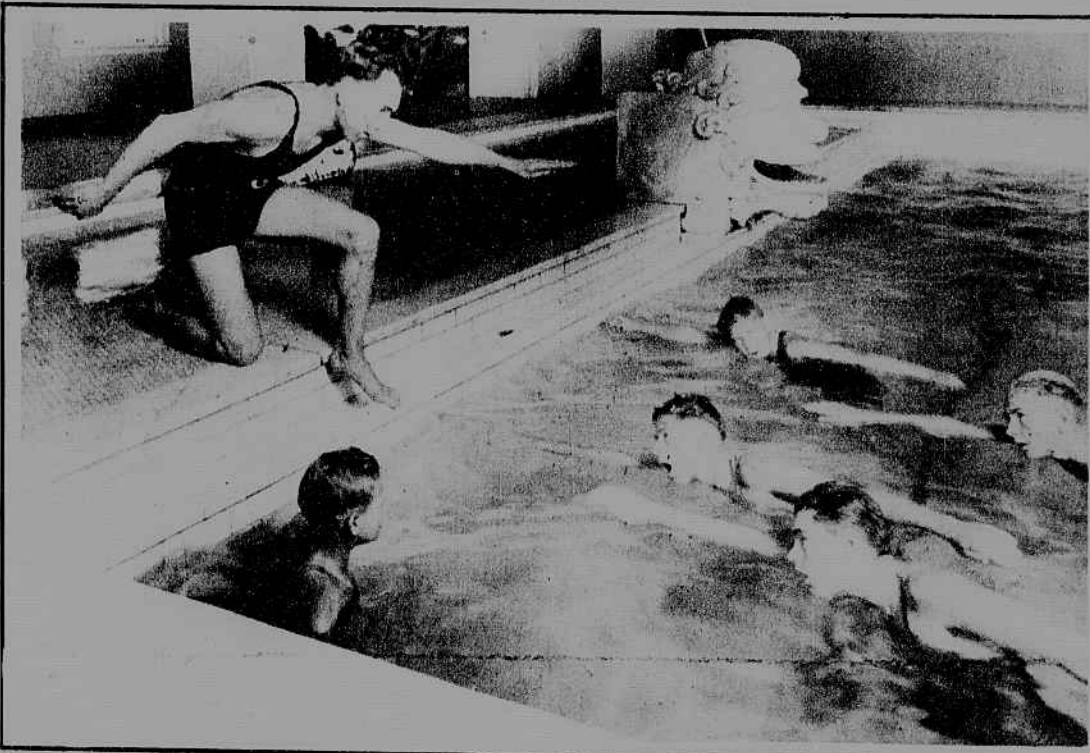

Gillman

Left—An especially good photo of a German destroyer coming head on at full speed. This picture, taken during active war operations in the North Sea, was held up at the time by the censor and has just been released by the new German government.

Kudel & Herbert

Right—Barnum was right. Here's one Henri, futurist dancer, scantily "clad" in native costume, doing an exaggerated Highland fling in the snows of one of New York's parks during the recent cold snap. Whoops! It gives us cold feet just to look at the picture.

Underwood

Little Ho Far asks Chu Bek if she can be a Chinese Girl Scout when she is old enough. Two of the more than 300 Chinese children who took part in the annual Christmas entertainment of the New York Chinese Sunday schools last Monday evening in Chinatown.

O. J. Bauman

Ethel Barrymore is presented with a bouquet by the "Spirit" who preceded her unfurling of the new Equity Flag at the Act...

Supper time at the New York Foundling Hospitals where babies that have been rescued, saved to society and in every sphere of human activity.